City Council approves apartment zoning

By Lynne Locke

By a narrow margin Monday night the Upland City Council approved a multiple-family residential zone along Foothill Boulevard, defeating a move to halt construction of apartments in the city.

Council members Ina Petokas and George Gibson opposed the zone change which would allow construction of 70 apartment units west of the Vista Via apartments on Foothill Boulevard between Mountain and Benson avenues.

Mrs. Petokas said the "railroad car" shape of the 2.4-acre parcel will cause "an awkward situation" and commented Upland already has an "overabundance of apartments."

Upland could find itself in the same position as Pomona which allowed an oversaturation of apartments so no one wants to live there, said Mrs. Petokas. Pomona now has to cope with this problem that was caused several years ago, she added.

Gibson noted that a year-old survey shows Upland has a higher percentage of apartments than any city in the valley. The council has allowed commercial and apartment development "up one side and down the other. It's time we stopped it," he said.

Apartment create congestion and don't pay a fair share of taxes for the services they require, Gibson added.

Council members Abner Haldeman, John McCarthy and Hal Bailin supported the zoning change because the master plan allows only apartments or more commercial development.

McCarthy said the city doesn't need additional shops and stores along Foothill Boulevard. Multiple-family residential is the only alternative becaue the city can't put single-family residences along Foothill Boulevard, he added.

Although Gibson suggested single-family residences could be backed on Foothill Boulevard, the council voted 3-2 to approve the Crowell - Leventhal development.

The Architectural Commission will oversee development of the apartment complex to ensure quality construction and to provide a buffer between the development and future single-family residential development to the southeast.

Also Monday night the council opposed construction of an asphalt processing plant in unincorporated area west of Benson Avenue at 20th Street.

The Council members directed planning assistant Robert Nastase to tell the San Bernardino County Environmental Review Board the City Council and the citizens have "grave reservations over the wisdom of the entire project."

Gibson and McCarthy abstained from the action since they are board members for San Antonio Land Co., which owns the property in question.

Nastase told the council the county Environmental Information Report (EIR) "seems to be in favor of the project" in spite of such problems as noise, odor, dust and traffic.

McCarthy noted the plant would be served by 40 trucks a day. He added dust, noise and pollution from the plant would not affect concerned Claremont residents because the prevailing wind is westerly. The plant would not be compatible with Upland's single-family residential zoning to the east, he said.

The proposed increase in industrial usage conflicts with the area's intended usage for water dispersion and flood control, Councilwoman Petokas commented.

In other action Monday night the council:

—Set the 1975-1976 tax rate at slightly more than $1.86 per $100 of assessed valuation. The rate is the same as last year except for a slight decrease in funds for the police retirement system.

The assessed valuation of property in Upland is $107,397,650, an increase of 13.6 per cent from last year, according to a city staff report. Tax funds will be allotted as follows: general fund, $763,460; park and recreation, $357,097; library, $306,084; capital outlay, $120,830; and employe retirement, $352,760.

—Approved a zone change from agricultural to open zoning for a 5.6-acre park site at the northeast corner of San Antonio Avenue and 20th Street. City Manager Lee Travers said the city does not plan to develop the neighborhood park until the surrounding residential area is developed.

—Awarded Paul Gardner Corp. of Ontario a $770,276 contract for improvement of Mountain Avenue between the San Bernardino Freeway and 16th Street.

—Set a public hearing 7 p.m. Sept. 2 to consider closing a 14-foot-wide alley lying between Stowell Street and Eighth Street east of Second Avenue.

—Approved a tentative tract map for nine lots on 3.8 acres at the northeast corner of Euclid Avenue and 16th Street in a single-family residential zone. The tentative plans include a continuation of the alley east of Euclid Avenue and a continuation of First Avenue. Both alley and First Street will open onto 16th Street.

—Approved a tentative tract map for 18 lots on 10 acres at the northeast corner of Redding Way and 17th Street in a proposed single-family residential zone.

—Approved a tentative tract map for eight lots on 4.8 acres northwest of Euclid Avenue and 22nd Street in a single- family residential zone.

—Set a public hearing 7 p.m. Sept. 15 to consider proposed rate increases for Theta Cable Television. The hearing will be televised over Theta Cable T.V.

Home gardening class

Students learn about ecology

By Lynne Locke

Although ecology has been taken for granted for years, people are beginning to realize its importance, commented Serge Seminoff, who teaches a home gardening class sponsored by Chaffey College Community Education.

Seminoff said, "The more plants you have around you, the purer the atmosphere because plants are natural air conditioners."

Plants also have a psychological effect on people. He said ferns are naturally cooling no matter how hot the weather. The cooling effect is increased by running water over the ferns, he added.

Some agriculture students from Chaffey College take the class, but Seminoff plans the course for home gardeners who want to know about indoor and outdoor plants.

He said the purpose of the class is for people to become familiar with plant care so they are better gardeners. New residents take the class to learn about Southern California plants.

Seminoff advises out-of-staters to forget the way they gardened before because California plants need different care.

Many younger people have never been exposed to gardening, so the class helps them avoid unnecessary problems in learning by experience, he said.

The most common problem is doing too much for a plant, Seminoff said and added that more plants have been killed by too much water than any other reason.

New gardeners also get very impatient and want their seeds or cuttings to become plants in a very short time. He said new gardeners begin to understand "plant time" after one season.

In the class Seminoff emphasizes normal conditions in plants so gardeners know what to expect of their healthy plants.

One class member learned not to remove yellow-brown leaves from the base of her fern. Seminoff told her the yellow-brown leaves are new growth rather than dead leaves.

He advised the owner of a new fern to "to be nice to it, be patient, and it will be all right. It's still getting adjusted." Seminoff also told gardeners to be patient with plants that droop in the hot weather because they will revive in the fall.

West End gardeners have a particular problemw ith alkaline soil since the area was desert before irrigation was brought in by the Chaffeys.

Seminoff said most shade and sun-loving plants like slightly acid soils, so local gardeners are "forever conditioning the soil with peat moss and leaf mold." Some gardeners think they can condition the soil once and it will be permanent, but they must condition it each time they plant, he noted.

One class member avoids the alkaline condition by gathering rain water in 30-gallon garbage cans so his plants have water that is not too salty.

Another class topic is landscaping. Gardeners learn to combine different plants that look well together and need the same type of care. Seminoff said plants such as ferns grow differently depending on whether they are planted on the ground, placed in a hanging pot or grown over a fence.

The year-long class is open-ended so people can enter at any time of the year. During the winter Seminoff teaches gardners about house plants, bare-root roses, camellias and azaleas.

In the spring class members learn how to prepare a summer vegetable garden. Summer topics include proper watering and heat-loving plants such as oleanders, crepe myrtles, hibiscus and bougainvillea.

During September he teaches gardeners how to plant a winter vegetable garden and how to prepare winter and spring-blooming blulbs. In November students learn about holiday plants such as holly and poinsettias.

Throughout the entire year Seminoff urges class members to bring their own questions to class.

The free class is held 1-3 p.m. the first and third Wednesdays of the month at Mt. Fuji Gardening Center, 1555 W. Foothill Blvd., Upland.

Mt. Fuji also holds a monthly bonsai class and free vegetable-growing contest for boys and girls aged 7-13. Students compete in growing pumpkins, sunflowers or zucchini in the vegetable contest, April to October. For information on the classes or contest, call 985-2219.

Head officer of Lions set

A new president has been elected to the Cucamonga Lions. Joe Stanko will take over for outgoing president Bill Farmer.

Farmer summed up his year as president reminding members of the $2,000 the club had donated to service in the tri-community area of Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda.

Of that money, $1,629 was used to purchase 47 pairs of eyeglasses and examinations for needy youngsters in the area, he said.

The balance of the money was donated to activities such as the Boy Scouts, Boy's Club, Little League, student speaker contests and The City of Hope, he said.

Recognized as professional

Boys' Club director noted for abilities

Thomas I. Neyman, executive director, West End Boys' Clubs, has been accepted as a fully qualified professional Boys' Club worker, it was announced by William R. Bricker, national director of the Boys' Clubs of America.

In making the announcement, Bricker said Neyman's education, professional background training and Boys' Club experience thoroughly qualify him for work with today's young people.

"Boys' Clubs today are more than just places for fun and games," said Bricker. "A professional Boys' Club worker must exercise knowledge and skill in his day-to-day work with boys from seven through 17, many of whom have serious problems." He pointed out that there are now some 6,000 full and part-time workers employed at more than 1,000 Boys' Clubs, offering every-day services to well over a million deserving boys.

Boys' Clubs of America regularly conduct training courses for these workers to sharpen their skills and keep them posted on developments. To earn certification, a worker must have completed four of these courses, have at least two years of full-time, paid experience in Boys' Club work, and have some college training or additional experience.

Neyman joined the West End Boys' Clubs following 10 years experience as executive director of the El Paso Boys' Clubs and Boys' Clubs of Weber County. He earned his bachelor's degree in psychology from Texas Christian University and his bachelor of divinity degree from Brite Theological Seminary. He has also done work on his master's degree at the University of Texas at El Paso along with special training in the field of counseling of disadvantaged youth.

Society notes boy who can hear now

Jeffrey's red hair was wreathed in a head-set to test his hearing ability. All of a sudden, the look of surprise accompanied by a twinkle in his green eyes denoted what great and florious sounds came into his ears. Three-year-old Jeffrey Stanley of Upland was being tested by Julie Campen, an audiometrist licensed by the State of California, while he attended a pre-school class sponsored by the First Baptist Church in Ontario. He is one of thousands of children in the West End benefitting from the services of the Pomona Valley Hearing Society, a member agency of the West End United Way.

Mrs. Edna Staudenmayer, executive secretary of the Pomona Valley Hearing Society, used Jeffrey's story to illustrate the 50 years of service given by the society. She has very personal knowledge too, for her daughter was hard of hearing, and two decade ago, Mrs. Staudenmayer went to the society for assistance and found the kind of help she needed. Her daughter now leads a full and active life.

Because of this experience, she became involved as a volunteer in the Pomona Valley Hearing Society. That was 23 years ago and she is still working every day to see that the hearing needs of West End people are met. "The Pomona Valley hearing Society now offers private and parochial school screening, industrial pre-employment hearing testing and sponsorship of lipreading classes under adult education programs," Mrs. Staudenmayer said.

"We also have a speakers bureau to discuss hearing and act as a referral source for anyone with questions or problems concerning hearing loss." Mrs. Staudenmayer explained that the Pomona Valley Hearing Society was formed in 1926 as a social group for citizens with hearing losses, but quickly moved into other areas such as providing testing and organizing lipreading classes.

As the population in the valley increased, the society became more active, particularly in the area of locating children with hearing problems at the earliest age possible so treatment could begin. The society also worked to create recreation classes for the hard of hearing and to form special education classes in the local public schools.

In the 1950's and 1960's, the society expanded their services to include pre-school testing, providing special teaching aides and giving hearing tests at community functions. In this period, the society also added trained, licensed audiologists to its staff.

For the first 30 years, the Pomona Valley Hearing Society was funded through personal donations, community services clubs, due and fund raising events. Incorporated as a non-profit corporation in the 1960's, the society became one of the agencies of both the Los Angeles County United Way and the West End United Way.

With thousands of people assisted yearly, the Society has made a special effort to avoid duplication of services, according to Mrs. Staudenmayer. "As other community agencies have exhibited the ability to assume specific services to the hearing handicapped, we have discontinued them," she said. "In this way, some of our prior programs are now handled through the Crippled Children's Society, the public school system and special testing through Casa Colina."

While giving up some services, the society has created new ones and expanded others, particularly in working with LaVerne College where students are especially trained to work in teaching the hearing handicapped.

Julie Campen, who gives tests to children is one of these students. Although not graduated, she has enough special training to pass the rigid California examinations to become a licensed audiometrist. While there is a nominal charge for some of the services provided by the Pomona Valley Hearing Society, no one is ever turned away because of lack of funds. The society's services can be gained by applying directly schools and other public and private agencies.

"Our objective is to prevent deafness, conserve hearing, rehabilitate the hard of hearing and educate the public," Mrs. Staudenmayer said. "But as in the past 50 years, our special interest is serving the people in the community, and we hope we can continue for another 50 years."

A three-year-old boy named Jeffrey smiles when he can hear, and with your contribution to the West End United Way, you too can smile because you know when the call for help came in, you were able to hear it.

Upland News; Cucamonga Times; Montclair Tribune

"Beep-beep, I can hear," says three-year-old Jeffrey Stanley of Upland as he is given a hearing test by Julie Campen, a licensed audiometrist. Jeffrey and all his classmates attend a pre-school sponsored by the First Baptist Church in Ontario. They were given hearing tests by the Pomona Valley Hearing Society, an agency of the West End United Way. If problems are discovered, the society will help in securing proper treatment.

Fatalities drop sharply on state highways

Fatalities dropped sharply on state highways in San Bernardino and Western Riverside counties last year, according to a preliminary survey by the California Department of Transportation (Caltrans).

In 1973 there were 224 fatalities on state highways in the two county area. Last year the fatalities dropped to 127. Caltrans Traffic Engineer John Chaudoin says the 1974 figures are down "better than 40 percent" from 1973.

The total number of accidents including those involving only property damage also dropped and is attributed to lower speeds, reduced travel, an aggressive program by the Hgihway Patrol and a concentrated effort by Caltrans to identify and modify spot locations involving motorist safety.

Chaudoin points out that there isn't enough data available as yet to indicate which had the most significant impact. "We know, for example, that weekend travel from January through May 1974 was down sharply, as much as 39 percent on key interstate highways."

"An interesting fact from our preliminary survey also shows that the accident rate dropped from 1.55 to 1.41 per million miles of travel between 1972 and 1973. And that drop wasn't impacted by the energy crunch," noted Chaudoin.

Beyond the obvious reasons for the sharp drop, Chaudoin points to a long range effort by CHP and Caltrans. The Highway Patrol has been focusing on drunk drivers and using special teams to concentrate coverage in high accident areas. Caltrans has several programs going, including close monitoring of all accidents.

"In monitoring accidents we look for trends and then go out to find out what's causing these trends. In some cases safety is as simple as cutting back a bush that's grown to the point that it's obstructing drivers' view at an intersection."

One program Caltrans likes to point to involves lessening roadside hazzards. The program is intended to reduce the severity of accidents when they happen.

One such installation probably saved two lives in the first month after it was installed. A "crash cushion" (technically known as an impact attenuator) was installed between the bridge rail dividers on the James A. Guthrie Memorial Interchange south of San Bernardino in February 1974.

During the first month it was hit twice by vehicles traveling at freeway speeds. Without the "crash cushion" Chaudoin says both accidents could have involved major injuries and possible fatalities.

In the first accident the driver sustained only minor injuries. The second driver apparently was able to drive away. Traffic Engineers say that the condition of the "crash cushion" is their only evidence that an accident occurred.

Besides the "crash cushions" the program involves pavement grooving to reduce the likeliness of hydroplaning in wet weather, moving obstacles further from the driving lanes, installation of breakaway sign posts and light standards, "New Jersey" type concrete median barriers and spot improvements such as left-turn lanes, and curve realignment. Still another program involves reviewing and updating signing at all freeway ramps to eliminate wrong-way entries to the freeway.

Mustangs set luau

The Upland Mustangs Pop Warner Football is sponsoring the "Hawaiian Luau" on Saturday, Aug. 23, at the Monte Vista Lodge in Upland.

Proceeds from the event will help pay for the Upland Mustangs' bowl trip in December to Hawaii.

Tickets will be available at the door. Further information is available by calling 985-5273 or 985-3996.

County offices to move

The San Bernardino County Department of Agriculture and Agricultural Extension Service will open in a new location at 8 a.m. on Aug. 25.

Currently located at 566 Lugo Ave., in San Bernardino, both operations will be moved to 606 E. Mill St., to facilitate plans of the City's Redevelopment Agency.

The two departments will be housed at the Mill Street location for 18 to 24 months on a temporary basis until completion of the County's new General Services Agency Complex.

The current move will be carried-out over the weekend to avoid interruption of services to the public.

CRTA plans luncheon

A sack luncheon at noon, Sept. 10, will be held by the Pomona Valley East members of the California Retired Teachers Association (CRTA).

The event will be held in Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church in Upland.

Dorothy Tichenor and Marian Dowden are in charge of arrangements.

Harold Cook, legislation chairman, will explain the two per cent cost-of-living increase retired teachers will receive in October. Ruth Crutchfield, information and protective chairman, will give a historical background on the Laura Settle Fund, which has provided thousands of dollars in scholarships.

Helen Andersen and Dorothy Mrs. Tichenor are in charge of a telephone committee. Ferna Doucette will be publishing the quarterly "Report Card" with added information.

The Southern Area Conference of the CRTA will be held on Oct. 22 at the La Verne Brethern Church in La Verne. The Pomona Valley East will meet on Dec. 9 at Mt. San Antonio Gardens, Claremont.

Retired teachers living in the West End and Claremont are invited to join the Pomona Valley East group of the CRTA. Anyone interested in further information is asked to call Virginia Coffey, membership chairman, at 982-8136.

Perennials enhance garden personality

Delphinium provides spectacular garden color with the spire-like flowers coming in varying shades of blues, lavenders and purple—as well as hues of pink and glistening white. This is just one of the summertime perennials which can blend shades in the garden. Consider planting blue delphinium with purple lavender and clumps of white shasta daisies.

Gardens can be many splendored things most of the year in California, especially in summertime. Gardens take their personality, to a great degree, from colorful summer-flowering perennials. There is literally no limit to the sizes, shapes and shades of summer perennials that flourish in the Golden State.

Whether the gardener plans a cheerful multi-colored display or a special separate color effect, there are hardy perennials to fit the scheme says the California Association of Nurserymen.

For a colorful array, geraniums (Pelargoniums) should not be overlooked. Blooming in pinks, salmon, scarlet, vermillion, lavender-purple tones, white and peppermint candystripe variegations, geraniums maintain colorful blooms for weeks and weeks. Pinch and prune for shape and provide good drainage, especially in heavy soils.

For blending shades of color, perennials are suitable candidates. A refreshing blue and white garden setting is achieved by blending the purple of lavender with the lighter blues of delphinium and clumps of white shasta daisies. This arrangement will thrive in sunny locations or in partial shade in mornings or afternoons.

There are many daisies to choose from. Marguerites provide plenteous daisy-like flowers in white and yellow. Transvaal daisies (Gerberas) are distinctively beautiful — hybrid singles or doubles have good sized flowers in intense shades of yellow, cream, pink, rose, orange, coral and red. The blooms are long-lasting, the plants are low and compact, ideal for foreground plantings and border situations.

For a rich-looking red-pink effect, deep red carnations can be combined with coral bells; a pink type of perennial phlox and sweet williams, in a rose shade.

If yellow is preferred, use yellow carnations, marguerites and yellow transvall daisies, says the California Association of Nurserymen.

Since summer perennials are to be found in all shades or red, blue and yellow, they can be effectively combined to achieve a cheery effect in the garden.

Japanese use trees, shrubs, stone, water

©C.A.N.

Heavenly bamboo (Nandina) adds an airy, Oriental touch to the garden. Slender branches support soft green leaves that are bronzy or pinkish when young.

In Japanese gardens, trees and shrubs are used as individual specimens and may represent a natural scene reminiscent of a family trip into the country or a visit to a famous shrine.

The Japanese use props of gravel, stone and water as foils for trees and shrubs, which leads to an effect that remains stable through every season of the year. The water may be a quiet pool or trickling stream. There may be no water at all — and instead rocks and stones arranged to represent a dried-up stream.

There are many approaches one may take to create a Japanese garden and there are several trees and shrubs that are naturals for the situation.

The Japanese maple is a small tree with a variety of garden uses. It may be used to shade a bank of azaleas, stand by itself as the focal point of the garden or be featured in a container. "Threadleaf" varieties are lower-growing types with gracefully spreading branches. With both types, there is a choice of red or green foliage. Leaves fall in winter to reveal eye-appealing silhouettes of slender branches.

Pines almost are essential to a Japanese garden. The Japanese black pine is popular, so is the Austrian black pine — as well as the dwarf Mugho pine.

An airy touch is added by planting clumps of heavenly bamboo (Nandina). Slender branches support compound leaves of soft green, bronzy or pinkish when young. A compact variety remains lower and is an excellent choice where a modest grower is needed, advises the California Association of Nurserymen.

Borders, containers

Use grass-like ornamentals

It used to be a lawn was the only place in the garden to grow grass. But, innovative gardeners are aware that they can make excellent use of decorative grasses in borders, around pools, in containers, and as accent for landscape plantings.

If the grass-like ornamentals are unfamiliar to you, now is a good time to visit a local nursery and meet the plants in person. Small plants in flats — and larger specimens can generally be obtained in nursery containers.

A popular choice of landscape designers is the clumping blue fescue (Festuca). It features long, needle-like foliage in an appealing silvery-blue that grows thickly enough to form a mounding border or edging. The plants are excellent for accenting many different types of landscape settings. Its decorative value is great — up close or from a distance.

Another decorative choice is equisetum. Better known as horsetail reed grass. Tall, slender green stalks are jointed and darker markings add interest to the plant, which is ideal in and around garden pools. The plant has much focal interest in the landscape. It is intrusive, so keep the roots contained, if possible, suggests the California Association of Nurserymen.

Fountain grass (Pennisetum) is striking, with arching narrow leaves — and colorful one-foot spikes. Plumes of purplish to rose add ornamental quality to the graceful growth of this hardy performer.

Turf-lily is not a grass but it looks enough like one to qualify for this round-up of decorative delights. The arching leaves are rich green in color. It provides a low, grassy cover and spikes of blue flowers contribute even more distinction to an extraordinary landscape choice.

Drain the way to success

Once you have picked your pots, start planting, but remember these basics:

Drainage on the bottom of the pot is very important, particularly in containers that have no drainage holes. A one-half to one inch layer of pebbles or crushed pottery is necessary to catch any excess water in order to keep the roots dry. Then add a layer of sterilized enriched potting soil. Place the plant in the pot with the roots loosely packed in the original soil. While holding it upright, add more soil and pack it evenly, not too hard.

Usually, it's a good idea to avoid disturbing new plants for a month or two after you buy them so they can adjust to their new surroundings. But if you purchase them in the five and dime store instead of a nursery, the soil may be less than ideal and repotting in the same size container with new sterilized soil is necessary.

Beware of pests

Health Tips

Scores of different insects and other pests "bug" our daily lives, but during the summer months the outdoorsman is particularly vulnerable to them. Nature's many creeping, crawling and flying creatures can deliver painful (and sometimes deadly) stings or bites, and sometimes also transmit disease.

Bees, wasps, ticks, chiggers and flies are usually prominent pests of farmers, fishermen, hunters and picknickers, but in certain areas scorpions and poisonous spiders are also a problem.

If you are stung by a honeybee, you must take prompt action to minimize the pain and irritaiton. Once the honeybee stings, the barbed stinger and the venom-filled sac often remain attached to the skin. Even though the bee has been brushed aside the threat has not been disposed of — venom can still enter the skin from the attached stinger. Carefully examine the pucture site with a knife or fingernail and "scrape" off the stinger immediately. Do not try to grasp the stinger between the fingers as more venom might be squeezed into the skin.

For first aid, apply a paste of meat tenderizer and water (¼ teaspoon of tenderizer in one or two teaspoons of water) to the area of the sting. This household preparation destroys the venom. Unless the stings are treated immediately in this way, the wound may accasionally remain painful, tender and swollen for days.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Health Tips is a column of the California Medical Education and Research Foundation, prepared and edited by physician members of the California Medical Association. It is reprinted by this newspaper as a public service.

Hornets, yellow jackets, wasps and bumblebees do not leave their venom sacs when they sting; consequently, they may sting more than once. These stings bring redness, pain, and itching; and, if you are stung many times, enough venom may be absorbed to make you quite ill. If this should happen, seek medical treatment.

Some people are additionally threatened by an allergic sensitivity to the venom of stinging insects. When sensitivity is known to exist, your physician may decide to administer desensitizing shots before your outing in an attempt at preventing severe allergic reaction to such stings. To relieve pain, use the same household remedy as for honeybee stings.

As a safety measure, remember that bees and wasps usually sting only when they are touched or threatened. Repellents will temporarily ward off mosquitoes and other blood-sucking insects but have little value in keeping stinging insects away. If you are going to be around such insects, use a net over the face and cover the arms and hands.

Health Tips (Concluded)

like creatures (actually members of the spider family) found in brush and woods, abandoned or little used dwellings and the like. They attach themselves to persons and feed on blood.

If the tick has previously fed on an infected animal, it may, inturn, infect its human host with Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever, relapsing fever, tick paralysis, Colorado tick fever — all of which can be very serious.

The important step in preventing these infections is to use protective clothing and repellents. Pants should be tucked into boots or socks, and shirts should be tucked under belts. There are a number of available, effective repellents on the market which can be applied to clothing and exposed parts of the body. One which contains diethyltoluamide is superior as a tick repellent.

If ticks become attached to the skin surface, remove the intact tick as soon as possible since prompt removal lessens the chance of infections. To remove, tightly grasp the head of the tick with small forceps or tweezers and gently move upward and outward from the skin surface. Hot objects, ether, and chloroform are not recommended. Rinse hands and forceps with alcoho and disinfect the bit site.

Most spiders are harmless to humans. However, there are two that can cause problems — the brown recluse and the black widow. Both of these are problems only in relatively rare and unpleasant circumstances — circumstances that usually could have been avoided.

The brown spider can be identified by a light yellow to brown body and legs, with a dark brown violin-shaped pattern on the chest region and six eyes arranged in three pairs. This differs from most other spiders which have eight eyes and spots or stripes on the legs and abdomen.

The mature female black widow is recognized by a shiny black body and legs and has a red hourglass pattern on the underside of the abdomen. If the outing is around a cabin, control of these pests can be accomplished by spraying the area with 2 per cent chlordane or 5 per cent dieldrin.

One additional hazard, though not common, should be kept in mind. Wild rodents — such as chipmunks and golden mantled squirrels — are sometimes carriers of plague. Fleas from these animals can transmit the disease to man.

The two small rodents mentioned above are the main vectors in California. You should avoid contact with all wild rodents, not just those which behave in a sluggish or sick manner or are dead or dying. Do not handle traps or bring home any of these animals.

Plague, as a disease in humans, is uncommon in this part of the world; however, since it is a grave disease which can present serious problems, its possible presence should never be ignored.

Strawberry Torte delight

Scrumptious is what you may call this deluxe torte which teams the flavors of pure vanilla with fresh ripe strawberries. Granted, this isn't a dessert for anyone on a diet, but should you slip for one dessert...make it worthwhile and have a torte.

Called torten in Vienna or Munich and gateaux in Paris and Brussels, these rich cakes, usually made with eggs, crumbs and ground nuts, richly frosted and garnished, are de luxe desserts, generally eaten in fancy restaurants.

Although the preparation of a torte isn't especially difficult there are more steps and more lavish ingredients than for most desserts. However, you can make and fill the two cake layers a few days or even a month in advance of serving and hold it in the freezer. It should be moved from the freezer to the refrigerator and allowed to thaw for a day before the final frosting and garnishing with whole strawberries.

Obviously when you prepare a dessert as lavish as Vanilla Strawberry Torte you will use pure vanilla extract. That's the final touch of elegance and why wouldn't it be, since pure vanilla comes from the cured bean of the vanilla orchid? You cannot hope to get the same irresistible perfume from an imitation vanilla.

Incidentally, if a less rich torte is desired, omit the whipped cream and berries and dust the torte with vanilla confectioners' sugar instead. However you prepare it, it's a beautiful dessert.

Vanilla Strawberry Nut Torte

7 eggs, separated
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar, divided
1½ cups very finely chopped walnuts*
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon salt
5 teaspoons pure vanilla extract, divided
2 pints strawberries, divided
1 tablespoon orange liqueur or grated orange peel
1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons water
2 cups heavy cream, divided
¼ teaspoon ground cardamom (optional)
¼ cup red currant jelly, melted

In the large bowl of an electric mixer beat egg yolks until light and lemon colored. Gradually add 1 cup of the sugar; beat until very thick and mixtures leaves a trail when beaters are lifted. Combine nuts, flour, cinnamon and salt. Fold into yolk mixture. Stir in 2 teaspoons of the vanilla extract. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into yolk mixture. Turn batter into two 9-inch pans, greased and lined on the bottom with waxed paper. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 F.) until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean, about 35 minutes. Let cakes cool in pans on racks for 10 minutes. Turn out of pans; remove waxed paper and cool completely on racks. Meanwhile, hull and slice 1 pint of the strawberries; sprinkle with remaining 2 tablespoons sugar and 3 teaspoons vanilla extract and the liqueur or peel if used; set aside. In a small saucepan sprinkle gelatin over water; let soften for 5 minutes. Heat over low heat to dissolve gelatin; remove from heat. Beat 1 cup of the cream along with the cardamom until it starts to thicken. Slowly pour in warm gelatin mixture beating until cream is thick; folk in strawberry mixture. Spread over one of the cake layers. Place second cake layer on top. Brush top cake layer with some of the melted jelly. Hull remaining 1 pint of strawberries, arrange on top of cake. Brush with remaining melted jelly. Beat remaining 1 cup heavy cream until thick. Use to frost sides and pipe around edge of cake. Refrigerate several hours or overnight, before serving.

*Blender may be used to grind walnuts. Blend a few walnuts at a time, then remove from blender; repeat. Yield: 12 portions.

Energy snacks

High-energy drinks and snacks that carry a nutritional wallop become more popular as folks take to all forms of sports.

SUPER NOG

2 cups milk
3 ripe banas
¼ cup wheat germ
2 tablespoons honey
2 eggs

Combine all ingredients in electric blender container. Cover and process at highest speed for 1 minute. Serve immediately or transport in vacuum container and shake before serving. Makes 3½ cups.

BANANA GRANOLA BARS

Banana Filling:
4 medium bananas, cut in chunks
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons cold water

In a large heavy saucepan, combine bananas, sugar and lemon juice. Cook over very low heat, stirring frequently to prevent scorching, for 50 to 60 minutes, until thick. Mixture will remain slightly chunky. Mix flour and water. Add to banana mixture, simmer 2 minutes and cool.

Sauce on pork fantastic

Generally one thinks of using a plum sauce with Chinse recipes for duck or pork. However, a sauce made with fresh plums give a sweet and tart lift to barbecued spareribs.

Oriental Plum Sauce

1 medium onion, cut in wedges
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¾ cup vinegar
¾ cup sugar
2 pounds fresh California plums, quartered
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon almond extract

In saucepan, cook onion in oil until soft. Mix cornstarch with vinegar and sugar. Add to onion. Cook, stirring until thickened. Add plums, salt and almond extract. Continue cooking until fruit is tender. Makes about 2½ cups.

Meanwhile, parboil or partially roast 5 pounds spareribs. Brush with Oriental Plum Sauce and grill over medium coals, brushing frequently with sauce. When crisp, cut into servings. Heat remaining sauce to serve with barbecued spareribs.

Christian women's club

"It's a Small World" will set the theme for the regular meeting of the Pomona Valley Christian Women's Club at noon on Aug. 27 at Griswold's in Claremont.

Table decorations and a children's fashion show by Atwood's of Upland will follow the theme.

Headlining the special musical program will be Pamela Deuel, a professional singer who is the sister of Peter and Geoffrey Deuel. She studied voice at Eastman School and at Baldwin-Wallace College in Berea, Ohio, before coming to Southern California. She appeared several times as a featured soloist in Las Vegas, Nev., and on many cross-country tours with professional groups.

Growing dissastisfaction with show business finally led Miss Deuel to gospel work. Since her conversion, many doors of Christian witness have opened to her, a club spokeswoman noted. This witness will be shared at the meeting as well as her special message in song.

Luncheon reservations may be made by calling 593-1254 or 986-4309. All women of the area are invited to attend. Child care is available when reservations are made.

SD Methodist

The Rev. Harold Thaine, tenor, will lead the San Dimas United Methodist Church in a hymn-sing and special music 10 a.m. Sunday. The church is located at 114-126 W. Second St.

Rev. Thaine is minister of Outreach activities of Foothill Evangel Church and an administrator at Christian High School in Downey. He is a Ph.D. candidate in international relations at the Claremont Graduate School.

Patti Stevens, an outstanding nightclub performer who has recently become a Christian, will also perform with the Rev. Thaine.

LV Presbyterian

Dr. John R. Springer will formally conclude five years of ministry at the La Verne Heights Presbyterian Church Sunday at the 10 a.m. worship service during which time the Sacrament of Holy Communion will be delebrated and Dr. Springer will preach on the topic, "Finally, Brethren, Farewell." The church is located at 1040 Baseline Road.

During Dr. Springer's ministry the congregation grew fourfold and moved into new buildings. On Aug. 26, he and his family will move to San Luis Obispo. He will begin his new ministry as senior pastor of the First Presbyterian Church there.

Also, during this Sunday morning worship service, 20 high schoolers and advisers, led by the Rev. Charles McAllister, John Garrison and Allan Farmer will be recognized and receive the congregation's blessing before leaving for the church's fifth backpacking trip in Yosemite National Park.

Christ Lutheran

For the 8:15 and 10:45 a.m. services Sunday at Christ Lutheran Church, 5500 Francis Ave., Chino, Dr. A. L. Plueger will speak on Mark 10:17-31 on "Impossibilities and God." At 9:30 a.m. in the sanctuary the adult Bible class, led by the pastor, will study the topic, "Will we know one another in Heaven?" Bible classes for others will be held in the rooms of the Parish Hall.

Mercy Airlift

The Mercy Airlift program of World Gospel Crusades Inc., based in Upland, recently purchased another cargo aircraft to join its fleet which provides emergency and famine relief around the world.

The former Shawnee Airlines Douglas DC-3 is being fitted for cargo and will be flown to Ethiopia late in September to join Mercy Airlift's other DC-3 in airlifting cargo to the famine areas of the country. Presently 60,000 pounds of supplies are being flown each week in Ethiopia.

Dr. C. Mervin Russell, president of World Gospel Crusades and founder-director of Mercy Airlift, said, "The Mercy Airlift program is our way of showing Christian concern for those who are in need." Mercy Airlift tries to demonstrate a practical Gospel that ministers to the total person, he added.

Citrus College talk

Nicky Cruz, former New York gang leader, will make a rare speaking appearance at Citrus College Stadium, with contemporary soul Gospel singer, Andrae' Crouch Thursday, Sept. 11.

Cruz, whose story is told in his autobiography, "Run, Baby, Run," and in David Wilkerson's classic, "The Cross and The Switchblade," tells how he moved from the heart of Spanish Harlem gangland to become a clear voice in the Christian youth movement.

Crouch, world renowned singer, composer and pianist, has performed before thousands in stadium concerts in Japan, England, Australia, Egypt, Samoa — around the world. Among his best-selling record albums are "Live at Carnegie Hall" and "Take Me Back."

The event is sponsored by Youth For Christ/Campus Life, Covina. Special $1.50 advance price tickets are available from San Gabriel Valley and Pomona Valley Christian bookstores, or direct from Youth For Christ, 461 N. Grand Ave., Covina. For ticket information call 331-0066.

FIESTA BONITA — Pictured with Fiesta Bonita's main raffle prize, a 1975 AMC Pacer, are Liza Gutierrez and Jon Corrales who will perform with the Ballet Folklorico De Aztlan during the three-day celebration Friday through Sunday at the Holy Name of Mary Church, corner of San Dimas Canyon Road and Palomares Street, San Dimas.

To meet needs of the Spanish speaking

Local diocese to form special committee

The Catholic diocese of San Diego which includes the West End will establish an executive committee for Spanish speaking people. It will be headed by Auxiliary Bishop Gilbert Chavez born in Ontario.

The committee is a result of policies approved by Bishop Leo T. Maher submitted by the 14 commissions of the Synod, which has been held in the diocese over the past two years.

The policy on Spanish speaking needs came from the commission on Mexican-American interests. It called for a committee which would:

—See that all diocesan and parish offices and services give adequate attention to the language and cultural needs of the Spanish speaking;

—Insure that there will be adequate representation of Spanish speaking in all policy, advisory and executive aspects of diocesan and parish structures;

—Evaluate and determine that the needs of the Spanish speaking are met.

Bishop Chavez is the vicar for Spanish speaking in the diocese and will head the new executive committee.

The "pastoral need" presented with this policy states that there is a need to "promote among the Spanish speaking population personal, family and social consciousness, and to develop personal and group leadership through the church."

A policy recommendation from the commission on family life, asking for a permanent body at diocesan level to be established, has also been accepted by Bishop Maher, according to Father Phillip Straling, Synod executive secretary.

This body "shall incorporate existing structures and programs dealing with family life in the diocese," according to the announcement. The bishop "emphasized that this body should have representation from, and offer services to, parishes and deaneries as well as being closely integrated with them," Father Straling said.

Named by the bishop to the implementation committee for this policy are: Sister Joan Alford, Father James Ferrigan, Harry Hood, Dr. June O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Krenz, Dr. Tom Lutz, Deacon and Mrs. Joseph Remley and Mr. and Mrs. John Winters.

The committee has been asked to meet with the Synod's Family Life Commission to study other Synod policies which deal with family life and to avail themselves of the research of the commission.

Valley Jehovah's Witnesses to attend Circuit No. 33 convention

The Pomona-Ontario Valley congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses comprising California Circuit 33 will attend a four-day Circuit convention this weekend. The meetings will be held at their Norco Assembly Hall, according to W. T. Nunn, overseer in the Claremont Area.

More than 3,000 delegates will be attending these sessions which will consist of discourses, group discussions and demonstrations of Bible information and effective teaching techniques prepared by various local ministers.

Particular attention will be given to family life and the problems confronting children due to the crises facing mankind today. "The convention will have much to say that will guide youth through the particular problems they face as well as parents responsibilities in that regard," Nunn said.

The meetings will be opened by E. L. Manfredi, a traveling minister from the Watchtower Society's headquarters in New York City. He will speak on the subject "Have We Kept Our Senses and Been Watchful?"

One of the features of this assembly will be the baptism service scheduled for Saturday and conducted by C. K. Spieth of the Pomona congregation. This will mark the ordination of new ministers.

The highlight of the assembly will be the public talk entitled "Stand Still and See the Salvation of Jehovah" to be delivered by Manfredi 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Sunday.

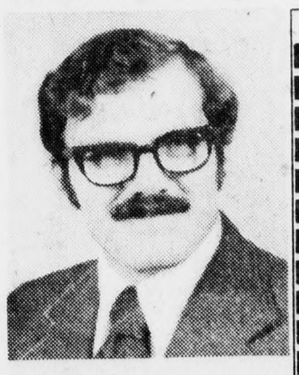

Montclair minister W. Johnson explained that "People are really concerned about the world conditions facing mankind today. People around the world are weary of war. They are also weary of paying the tremendous price required for military preparedness. People are also frightened by the prospects of continued environmental pollution accompanied by over population with the growing food shortages and rising prices."

"We must not be deceived into thinking that human rulership will produce genuine peace and security. Any peace or other benefits now arranged between governments will only be temporary, according to the Bible," Johnson continued. "Since God runs the whole universe, He must also be its ruler. Even mighty human rulers have been forced to achnowledge the almightiness of God and the reality of divine rulership. The last book of the Bible shows there will be divine intervention in human affairs for the everlasting benefit of all mankind."

All valley residents are invited to attend. There will be no collections.

Rest home expands

Samuel L. Kaye, president of the Los Angeles Jewish Home for the Aged, has announced that it will now accept applications from local elderly Jews who are in modest circumstances, ambulatory and medically eligible for the residential section. The 63-year-old home recently expanded its facilities to accommodate 450 residents on its nine-acre grounds at 18855 Victory Blvd., Reseda.

Bill Jennings, former Chaffey High School football player, has been appointed director of Christian education for the Upland First Baptist Church. He accepted the job after receiving his bachelor of arts degree from Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, Tex. Before moving to Abilene in 1971, Jennings worked for the Southern California Gas Co. for nine years. He had lived in Ontario since 1948, lettering in football at Chaffey High School from 1954 to 1957.

Ice Follies celebrates 40th year in show biz

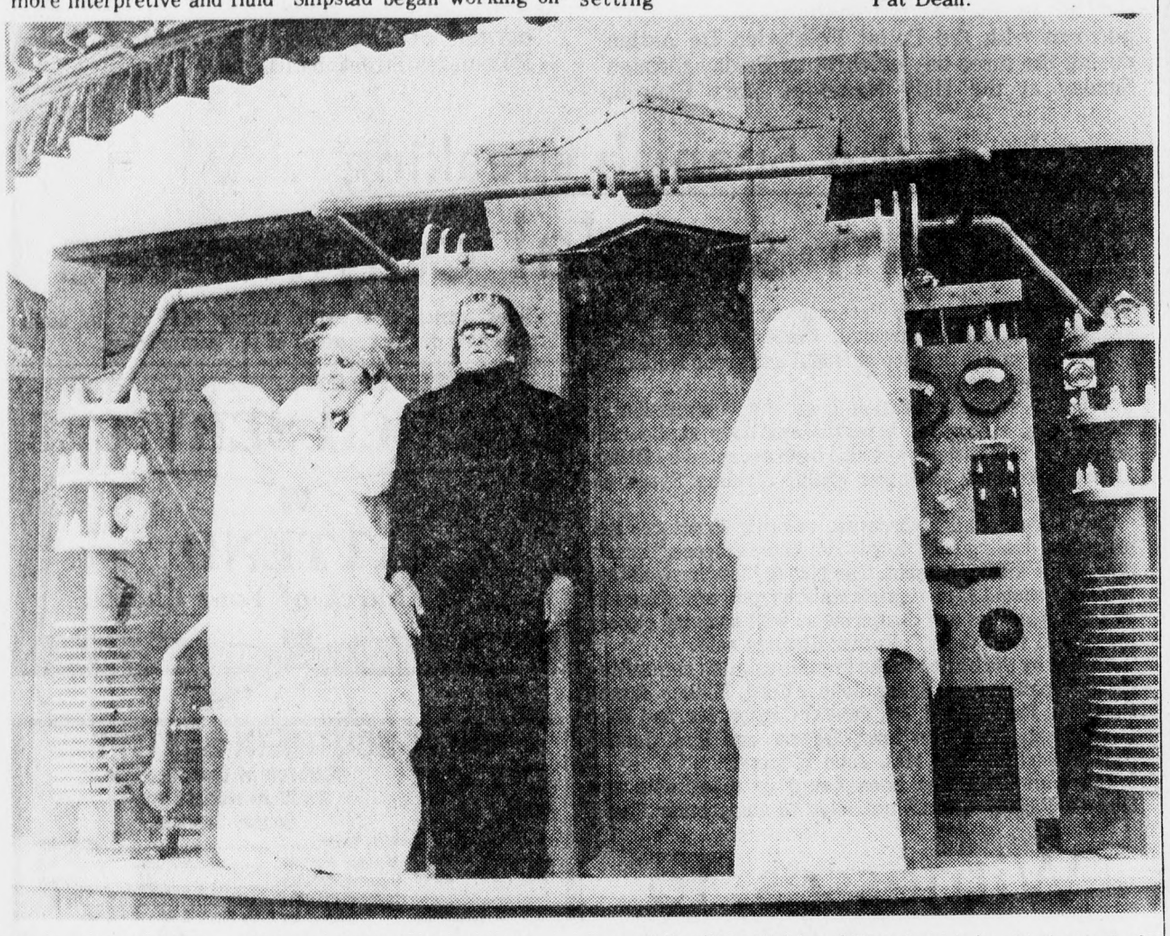

Forty years in the business of family entertainment has put Shipstads and Johnson Ice Follies on top of the list for spectacle, glamour, and tatent ... unmatched anywhere. This year is the 40th Anniversary Show, bringing back the best in romance and tradition form the American musical culture.

Highlighting this year's bicentennial show will be "America's Sweetheart," Janet Lynn. This is Janet's third, successful year with the show, with the same universal appeal she had as an Olympic Champion. A more interpretive and fluid style has given Janet new dimensions, both as a skater and performer, this year when pieces like "Painted Desert" and " I Got Rhythm" make up her repoirtoire on the ice.

Twenty-six years as Ice Follies "Mr. Debonnaire", seem to make the talented Richard Dwyer younger than ever as he skates to alluring, romantic melodies sung by Mr. Tony Bennett. Susan Berens, his skating partner and Ice Follies star for nine years, adds to the champagne elegance of this sparkling and talented couple.

When Producer Bob Shipstad began working on the production over a year ago, he wanted the romantic and nostalgic moods of Ice Follies past to be carried out in music, costuming and stage settings, that the founders, Eddie and Roy Shipstad and Oscar Johnson, found to be the key to its success.

Some of the original props from the early years of the show were pulled from storage, polished, and put back on the road. The lovely, transluscent champagne glasses along side the sparkling fountain used in the original Swing Waltz numbers, will again adorn the latticed stage setting

MAKE-UP SHOW — Universal Studios' newest attraction, "The Land of a Thousand Faces" make-up show, is a stage presentation in which two tour visitors are made up as Frankenstein and the New Bride of Frankenstein. At the end of the show, the audience is treated to a little merry-making, featuring Universal's own Dr. Frankenstein.

Young group of stuntmen begins work

The youngest group ot stuntmen ever to work in a Hollywood motion picture have begun work in Saul David's production of "Logan's Run" at MGM.

Six teenagers, ranging in age from 13 to 17, have been set to participate in a wild fight sequence with Michael York and Jenny Agutter in the adventure drama of life in a 23rd century city. They have been training for three weeks under the supervision of "Logan's Run" stunt coordinator Bill Couch.

Chosen for their acrobatic ability, the group includes Brad Allan, Mitch and Charles Gaylord, Mike Washlake, Jim Baxter and Pat Dean.

Neil Simon's new comedy to play L.A.

The theatrical coup of the season — the World Premiere of Neil Simon's new comedy, "California Suite" — will be the fourth attraction for the Center Theatre Group/Ahmanson's 1975-76 season. Simons' new play, which is four one-act comedies set in a Beverly Hills hotel, will premier at the Ahmanson Theatre of the Music Center on April 23 and play a six-week engagement through June 5, 1976.

"California Suite" is the first stage comedy Neil Simon has written in Los Angeles since moving here from New York.

Thus, with this announcement, the CTG/Ahmanson and Robert Fryer have lined-up a four-play season which will include an American premiere, a west coast premiere, and a world premiere. Opening the season will be the American premiere of Alan Ayckbourn's three comedies collectively called "The Norman Conquests," which has been the sensation of London for several theatrical seasons. "The Norman Conquests" will be directed by Eric Thompson, who directed the plays in London, and star Richard Benjamin, Paula Prentiss, Ken Howard, and Estelle Parsons, and play at the Ahmanson Theatre Oct. 10 through Nov. 29.

Spinal Defects Noted In Ulcer Paitents

By Dr. W. P. Helzer, D.C.

Frequently spinal defects are noted in an ulcer patient. It is for this reason that we advocate modern Chiropractic and care for ulcer conditions.

Dr. Wes Helzer, D.C.

You can't enjoy life when you are suffering from stomach ulcers.

Some of the first signs are gas pains, indigestion and a swelling or bloated feeling

Operations or diets sometimes bring temporary reflief. But after a while that old ulcer acts up again unless you correct the real cause of the trouble.

Pinched nerves of the spine often interfere with the nerves controlling the digestive juices and cause a body imbalance.

Ulcers then result when foods are unable to get their normal supply of those digestive juices.

Modern chiropractic ultilizes X-ray and other scientific methods to check for spinal defects. The modern Doctor of Chiropractic is a spine specilaist and is able to correct such defects without hospitalization. Ulcer trouble generally goes away once the spine is able to function normally.

Past discrimination a fact

March Fong Eu, California's Secretary of State, is the first ethnic minority to hold that office in the state's history. However, she has within her office a rich resource of information pertaining to the state's minority history — all documented in records stored in the California State Archives.

One of the many interesting facets of history found among these records deals with the legal status of the free black in Gold Rush California.

Prior to 1863, the black's legal status was difficult, at best. California law in the 1850s placed no restrictions on the black's ability to acquire property, both real and personal, but at the same time made it virtually impossible for him to protect such property through legal redress in California's courts.

The California Constitution of 1849 prohibited slavery, but left for others to determine the actual conditions of black rights. The first legislature set down procedures for judicial determination in civil and criminal matters in two bills signed into law in April, 1850.

Buried within both acts were nearly identical sections stipulating that "no black or mulatto person, or Indian, shall be permitted to give evidence in any action to which a white person is a party, in any court of this state." Interestingly enough, neither act made any reference to the Asian.

The application of these laws is well illustrated in "People vs. W. H. Potter," a criminal action brought in December, 1850, in Sacramento County, with Justice of the Peace Charles C. Sackett presiding.

The plaintiff, one Sarah J. Carroll, was a Mulatto and 19 years of age, according to information from the California State Census if 1852. Her status as a free black is supported in her complaint. Following her name appears the letters f.w.c. Translated, the letters signify "free woman of color," a term used up to the time of the Civil War and which applied to all persons not of the white race, including Indians.

In her complaint, Sarah Carroll accused one William H. Potter of feloniously taking "gold coin amounting to between $600 and $700. . . and certain jewelry and clothing to wit of the value of $200. . . from the premises of the deponent. . ."

The impact of the discriminatory law is evidenced by the documents comprising the suit, as the case was dismissed the same day it was originally filed, the clerk of the court entering on the back of the complaint, "Defendent discharged, he proving himself a white man and none but Colored testimony against him."

An outgrowth of this discriminatory law led in 1852 to the formation of the Franchise League, a San Francisco - based organization which included many blacks of wealth, education and ability.

The league's principal objective was the calling of three statewide colored conventions betwen 1855 and 1857. The convention coordinated a petition campaign directed toward the California Legislature.

The legislature, however, turned a deaf ear to all petitions; and it was not until 1863 that the testimony law was repealed and the black allowed to testify in suits involving white men.

'Camelot' rehearsals

With Robert Goulet and Carol Lawrence starring as King Arthur and Guenevere, the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera's new production of "Camelot" is now in rehearsal under the direction of Douglas Campbell in preparation for a Sept. 2 premier at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion of the Music Center.

Recent additions to the featured players in the musical are Victor Buono, last seen here as Falstaff in the Mark Taper Forum's "Henry IV, Part 1", who will play King Pellinore, and Scott Jarvis who has been signed to portray Mordred.

It was exactly fifteen day, that the Messrs. Lerner and Loewe put the original "Camelot" into rehearsal, their first new musical since "My Fair Lady" which was still at the height of its popularity. And it was from that production that Mr. Goulet, then a relatively unknown baritone from Canada who was making his Broadway debut, sprang to national prominence for his portrayal of Lancelot.

Scrutinize labels in market

How can money be saved? Follow a good set of rules

Package labels are being scrutinized and there is much quick calculation going on in grocery stores these days.

When dollars need to be spent with care and they don't go very far, it is more important than ever to make every penny count.

Where can money be saved?

By now, every family must have its own set of rules. Here's another idea that can save time and money, stretch leftovers and help create exciting new dishes. Make your own white sauce mix.

With a bisic white sauce mix you not only save money, but at least as importantly, your valuable time. All kinds of good things begin with a white sauce or are served with one.

Make your own creamed vegetables (cheaper than frozen creamed vegetables), cream soups, souffles and croquettes.

The basic mix is a blend of corn starch, salt, pepper and instant non - fat dry milk which can be measured out in quantity in a matter of minutes and stores will in a canister or tightly covered glass container.

Home economists developed the mix and, by varying the amount of water, worked out a simple way to make thin, medium and heavy white sauce with it. The recipe for the basic mix is given here along with directions for the three sauces and three delicious dishes using the mix.

White Sauce Mix

2¾ cups instant non-fat dry milk
½ cup corn starch
1 teaspoon pepper

Stir together non-fat dry milk, corn starch, salt and pepper. Store in tightly covered jar at room temperature. Makes 2 2/3 cups mix. Note: Stir White Sauce Mix before each use.

Medium White Sauce

2 tablespoons margarine
1/3 cup White Sauce Mix
¾ cup water

In small saucepan over low heat, melt margarine. Remove from heat. Stir in White Sauce Mix and water. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly, and boil 1 minute. Makes about 1 cup.

For Thin White Sauce: Follow directions for Medium White Sauce using 1/3 cup White Sauce Mix and 1 cup water.

For Thick White Sauce: Follow directions for Medium White Sauce using 2/3 cup White Sauce Mix and 1 cup water.

Creamed Vegetables

2 tablespoons margarine
1/3 cup White Sauce Mix
¾ cup water
3 cups cooked vegetables

In medium saucepan over low heat, melt margarine. Remove from heat. Stir in White Sauce Mix and water. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly, and boil 1 minute. Add hot vegetables. Makes 4 cups (4 to 6 servings).

Cream of Asparagus Soup

¼ cup margarine
2/3 cup White Sauce Mix
1 chicken flavored boullion cube
2 cups water
1cup finely chopped cooked asparagus

In medium saucepan over low heat, melt margarine. Remove from heat. Add White Sauce Mix, boullion cube and water. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly, and boil 1 minute. Stir in asparagus. Heat thoroughly. Makes 3 cups.

Cheese Souffle

2 tablespoons margarine
2/3 cup White Sauce Mix
1 cup water
½ pound Cheddar cheese, diced
4 eggs, separated

In small saucepan over low heat, melt margarine. Remove from heat. Stir in White Sauce Mix and water. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly, and boil 1 minute. Add cheese. Cook over medium low heat, stirring constantly, until cheese is melted. Remove from heat. In small bowl, beat egg yolks slightly. Gradually add hot cheese misture to egg yolks, mixing well. In large bowl, beat egg whites until stiff. Gently fold in cheese mixture. Pour into ungreased 1-½ -quart casserole. Place casserole in baking pan. Fill baking pan with warm water to depth of 1 inch. Bake in 350 degree F oven 1¼ hours or until knife inserted halfway between center and edge comes out clean. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Dress up the Great American Hot Dog in a different way with Frank and Potato Salad Broil, which is a likely candidate to replace "I don't care" as the most popular summer meal. Recipe features mashed potato granules to save the cook the chore of peeling and paring fresh potatoes.

Light main dishes feature new tricks

Chances are if you were to "poll" your family about what they'd like for dinner tonight, tomorrow night or just about any night this summer the overwhelming vote would be for something called "I don't care."

We've yet to come across a recipe for this seemingly popular main dish, though most women tell us it is the meal most often requested by their families.

Two new recipes from test kitchens in Rochester, N.Y., are likely candidates to replace "I don't care" as the most popular summer meal. Both are light main dishes which feature new tricks with old favorite salads.

Frank and Potato Salad Broil dresses up the Great American hot dog in a different way. Frankfurters go under the broiler topped with a tasty potato salad. The salad is "summerized" to make it easy on the chef. No peeling and paring, just substitute instant mashed potato granules for fresh potatoes. Green peppers and celery add the familiar potato salad crunch and a sprinkling of cheese broils to a golden topping.

Tuna-Potato Salad combines two favorites. How easy can you get? Just reach for a can of tuna and a package of scalloped potatoes — the seasoning is right in the package along with peeled and sliced potatoes.

Serve either recipe with fresh tomatoes and cucumber slices, hot buttered rolls, sliced pound cake with fresh berries and milk and coffee. These light summer meals are bound to please everyone, even those who originally requested "I don't care."

and simmer about 15 minutes, until tender. Drain and chill. Combine potatoes with celery and tuna. Stir together mayonnaise, picle relish and seasoning mix from package of potatoes add to potato and tuna mixture, and toss gently. 5 to 6 servings

Vegetarian should eat basic foods

The basic four food groups are the same for both vegetarians and their meat-eating neighbors. And according to the California Dietetic Association, Inland Empire District, both groups should use the method for balancing diets.

However, warn the dietitians, vegetarians would be wise to consult a dietitian to be sure their families are being adequately nourished.

There are many different types of vegetarians but their diets generally fall into three main categories. lacto-ovo vegetarian, lacto vegetarian and the strict or pure vegetarian.

The lacto-ovo vegetarians do not eat meat but they will eat dairy foods and eggs. The lacto vegetarian also rejects meat but will drink milk and eat dairy foods. The strict vegetarian will not consume any food of animal origin.

Even among the pure vegetarians a nutritionally sound diet is possible but special care has to be taken to get sufficient vitamin B-12, calcium, vitamin D, riboflavin and complete protein.

Dietitians in local hospitals and public health departments can provide vegetarians recipes and suggestions for meal planning and preparation so that a diet contains a variety of foods that are appetizing and nutritious.

The Fiat 128.

More legroom for passengers in the front seat than America's most luxurious cars.

The $9,000 Imperial 42.8 inches — The $9,500 Continental 43.3 inches — The $10,000 Eldorado 43.4 inches — The $2,741* Fiat 128 43.8 inches

At Fiat, we've designed our cars to make the most of what they have.

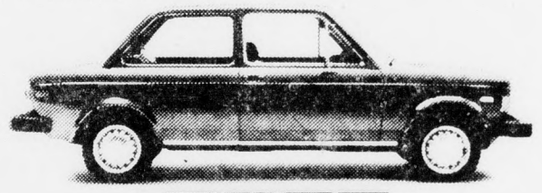

80% of the Fiat 128 is for people and luggage. Only 20% is for the engine.

Our car will cruise all day at 80 mph, powered by an engine that's 1/6 the size of the Cadillac's.

And the 128 has standard equipment that isn't in the opulentmobiles even as options. Does this mean we expect you to give up your desire to buy a Cadillac and buy a Fiat? No.

It means you shouldn't give up your desire for a Fiat and buy a Cadillac.

1946 Columbia Pictures musical

'The Jolson Story' returns

"The Jolson Story," the musical cavalcade of entertainer Al Jolson now presented by Columbia Pictures in 70 mm and stereophonic sound, returns to the screen in an exclusive encore engagement at the Beverly Theater in Beverly Hills beginning Aug. 28.

A special invitational preview, under the auspices of The Friars, will be shown on Wednesday night before the opening. Jolson was a founder - member of the entertainment industry club, and many top show business personalities will bein attendance.

The opening of "The Jolson Story" also will be a salute to Sidney Skolsky, veteran Hollywood columnist and the producer of the film, released in 1946, and the winner of five Academy Award nominations and two Oscars.

"The Jolson Story," starring Larry Parks in the title role, Evelyn Keyes as his wife, William Demarest as his stage partner and manager, and Bill Goodwin as a Broadway producer - friend, features the voice of Al Jolson singing 25 songs with which the inimitable performer had become indelibly identified in a near four-decade career from minstrels to Broadway headliner, radio and motion picture star, and hailed as America's greatest entertainer.

The movie was directed by Alfred E. Green from a screenplay by Stephen Longstreet. Morris W. Stoloff was the musical director, and the dances were staged by Jack Cole.

Filmed in 1945

In 1945, when Columbia filmed "The Jolson Story," the musical cavalcade of the life and songs of Al Jolson, self-styled show business experts predicted it would be a boxoffice bomb, as Jolson, the number one entertainer of his day, had slipped to near obscurity, a has-been that few would remember or care about.

"The Jolson Story" was filmed with lavish production numbers duplicating New York's Winter Garden and other stages on which Jolson had electrified audiences with his dynamic stage presence and exuberant vocal renditions.

Twenty-five musical production numbers, all songs with which Al Jolson had been closely identified, were guided in the score by Stoloff (who won the 1946 Oscar for his work), and the production dances staged by Cole.

A relatively unheralded Columbia contract player, Parks, had been cast in the title role, a limning in the screen which captivated audiences and criticis and won hi an Academy Award nomination.

As Jolson's early career partner on the stage and later his manager, co-star Demarest also was honored with an Oscar nomination. Columbia's sound recording department won a second Oscar.

The musical was released in 1945, grossed more than $8,000,000, made a star of Parks, and revitalized the career of Jolson, who had contributed all the songs on the sound track.

The story

In Washington, D.C., at the turn of the century, Asa Yoelson, alert, eager 12-year-old played by Scotty Beckett, is bitten by show business, and runs away to join Steve Martin (William Demarest) in his vaudeville act. Apprehended by police and returned to his father (Ludwig Donath), he pleads for the chance to become an entertainer. His father finally relents, and Asa tours the country as Steve's "stooge" and singer.

At 18, Asa has become Al Jolson (Parks), and is now a full-fledged singer. Lew Dockstader (John Alexander) urges him to join his famous minstrel show. With the minstrel he achieves success, but soon tires of the traditional routines of the show. The "Blues" fascinate him; deep inside, he is developing a style all his own to capture the rhythms of jazz. Engrossed with this, he misses a performance of his show and is fired.

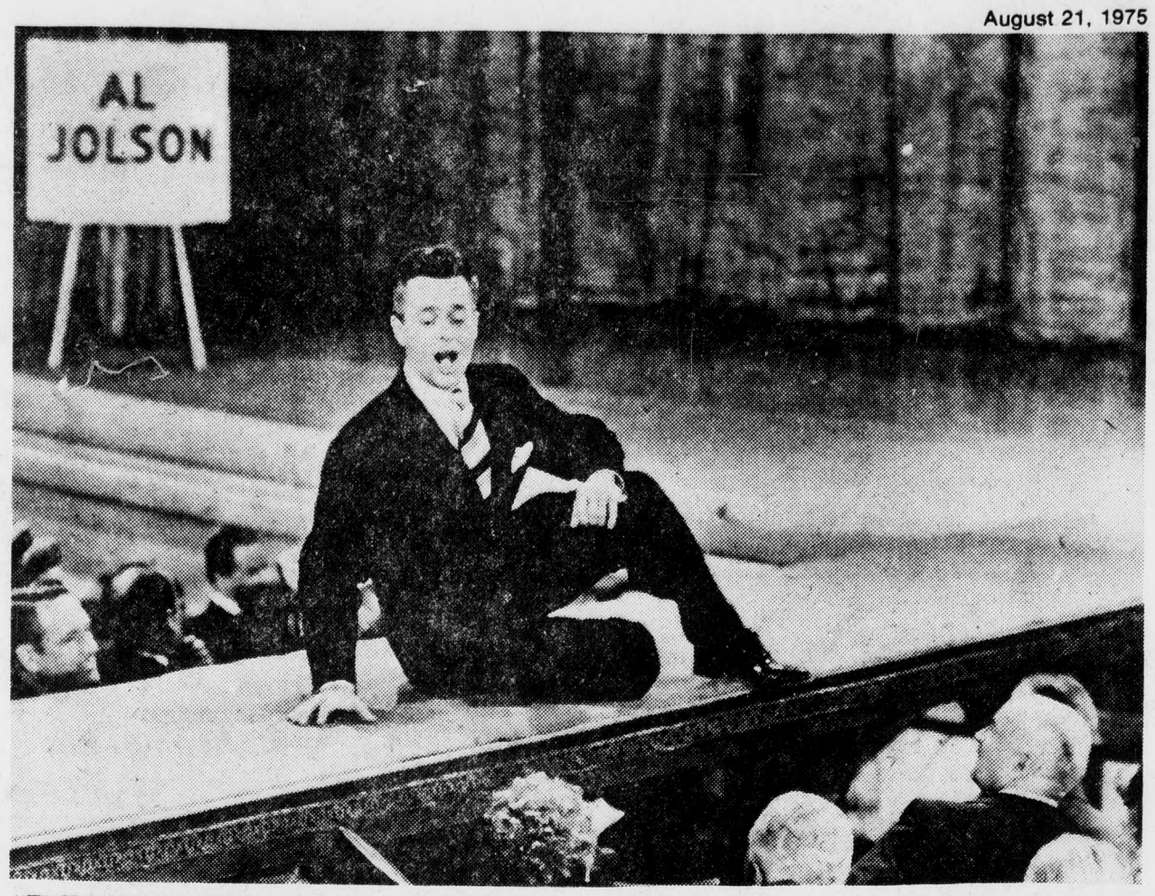

Disillusioned, he returns home. But, an old friend (Bill Goodwin) offers him a spot on a Broadway show and Al jumps at the chance. In blackface and singing "Mammy" with his new-found style, Al is as sensation and quickly rises to stardom.

The Shuberts open the Winter Garden and Al headlines one successful musical after the other. Steve rejoins him as his manager, and then comes an offer from Hollywood and the "talkies." Before leaving for the West Coast, Al meets beauteous Julie Benson (Evelyn Keyes), musical comedy star, and falls completely in love.

When he returns from Hollywood, after having completed the first "talkie," "The Jazz Singer," he finally persuades Julie to marry him. Elatedly, he takes her to California, and a career in pictures for herself.

A successful career, however, is not all that Julie wants. She longs for a home, a family, and retirement. Al finally relents when he has his first real quarrel with Julie and, true to the promise he made when they were married, retires. He tries, but is not happy.

One night at a night club, he is persuaded to perform and is greeted with ecstatic applause. "You ain't heard nothin' yet," Al declares joyfully. Julie now realizes that Al can never change. She walks out, leaving him to the life he loves — performing on stage.

"THE JOLSON STORY" — Larry Parks as Al Jolson, for whom the Shuberts build a special runway at the Winter Garden so he could "feel the people" serenades a pretty lady in his audience, a beauty he would later make his wife, portrayed by Evelyn Keyes, in Columbia Pictures release of "The Jolson Story." The musical, filmed in 1945, will air in 70 mm and stereophonic sound. An exclusive engagement will begin at the Beverly Theater in Beverly Hills Aug. 28.
